

Haus am Schüberg

Situated on the outskirts of Hamburg, the Haus am Schüberg is a Convention and Training Center owned by the Evangelical Lutheran Church, district Hamburg-East (,Ev.Luth. Kirchenkreis Hamburg-Ost'). The Haus am Schüberg has been certified as a Center for Education for Sustainable Development by the Ministry of Agriculture, Environment and Rural Regions of the federal state of Schleswig-Holstein since 2009. This certificate recognizes the Center's focus on sustainable ecology and honors its education programs for sustainable development.

With its long tradition of being an educational contact point for people of different origins, cultures and professions, the Center provides the opportunity to exchange ideas and experiences. The Haus am Schüberg is dedicated to the principle of ,peace, justice and the preservation of creation – now'.

Following these goals, the training center concentrates both on current topics, such as diversity, sustainability, and intercultural meeting, as well as economic theories. The educational work is continually updated to insure its positive impact on the future and to remain relevant for the coming generations.

Also worth mentioning are the two departments ,UmweltHaus am Schüberg' (Environment) and ,KunstHaus am Schüberg' (Art), whose work is highly recognized in Hamburg and its surroundings.
